WHICH TYPE OF SITE DO YOU NEED?

If you need your website to function as an “online brochure” - in other words a place you can direct enquirers to so they can find out more about your business – and you will only ever make infrequent changes to the site content, then you only need a simple html website.

If you want full control over your website content and/or you anticipate making frequent changes to the site content and/or you want your site to have blogging functionality, then it is more cost effective to have a simple CMS website.
